ANNE BELMONT

As a flower photographer, Anne's greatest passion lies in seeing and capturing the beauty of flowers and other botanical subjects up close. It is the small, often unnoticed details that draw Anne to her subjects – the patterns, textures, curves and unique personality of each subject. It is her belief that if we slow down and look at nature in a more contemplative way, we will find subjects that convey impact and emotion, causing the eye to linger a little longer. Some of those subjects might even have stories to tell. With a lifelong involvement in the arts and her deep love of nature, photography became a perfect way for Anne to share her vision of the natural world with others. Her first career as an art therapist has shaped the way she views art and the creative process and has reinforced her belief in the healing power of both art and nature in our lives.

CHANE CULLENS

Chane has been using Canon cameras since Canon introduced the Canon EOS autofocus single-lens reflex camera line in 1987.

Chane has delivered presentations to camera clubs on the “Elements of an Excellent Photo” which help photographers understand how judges look at photos as well as helping them become better judges. He has also created and delivered a follow up presentation titled, “It’s Not About Gear; Composition, Lighting, Technique and Center of Interest.” Chane is always willing to teach people new things. Three years ago, he created and continues to deliver an annual all-day hands-on photography workshop which not only covers many of the basics of photography, but also covers downloading and some post-processing of the photos. He also created and taught a class on Nature Photography for the Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection.

Chane has taken many award-winning photos. In 2017 he won the NECCC Conference 1st Place Black and White Print Portrait Award. The previous year two of his photos were accepted by the Connecticut Association of Photographers for their TOPS 100 selection. He also won the Best in Show Award at Flagpole Photographers’ annual competition last year and prior to that won the club’s annual Nature Award which earned his photo a permanent placement on the wall of the town library. Other award-winning photos of his can be found lining the walls of a local restaurant which were purchased after seeing them in one of the many exhibits Chane participates in.

Chane has been judging for regional camera clubs for years including both monthly competitions and annual competitions. He offers insightful critiques and suggestions to allow the maker to increase the strength of their photos.

CHRIS MURRAY

Chris is a fine-art nature photographer, instructor, and writer working primarily in the landscape of his home, the woods, lakes, mountains, and streams of New York State. His work has appeared in several magazines including Popular Photography, Shutterbug, Adirondack Life, Life in the Finger Lakes, and New York State Conservationist, among others. His landscape stock imagery is represented by Aurora Photos and Danita Delimont Stock Photography. He is also a staff instructor with the Adirondack Photography Institute (ADKPI). Chris' interest in photographing landscapes is derived mainly from his love of the natural world, the same love that led him to choose geology as his first profession. In photography, he strives to make images that are a reflection of his sensibilities and how he sees the world. His goal is to make images that are not a literal documentation of place, but rather a creative expression of his response to that place.

In recognition of his active support of PSA and his local and regional photographic organizations, his excellent exhibition record, and his willingness to share his knowledge with others, Dan was elected an Honorary (HonPSA) in 2015. For his photographic ability he received his Excellence Distinction (EPSA) in 2010 and is a recipient of the highest award given by PSA, the President's Award. As the past PSA Exhibition Services Vice President, he recently served on a combined committee with other worldwide organizations to update the PSA Nature definition (which most clubs in NECCC use) so it reads the same for all countries. Dan is a member of the Greater Lynn PA, past chairman and member of the Massachusetts Camera Naturalists and past chairman of PSA's Nature Division. In PSA exhibitions, he has multiple galaxy and star ratings in four divisions and has been awarded over forty medals in international exhibitions. He is also a club, interclub, and International Exhibitions judge, a lecturer, and an author on all aspects of photography.

Frank is an Olympus Visionary and a self-taught photographer whose love for the craft goes back to a very early age. Decades later, his passion for photography has yet to fade and he continues to perfect his skills. As a philanthropic photojournalist, Frank's raw travel covers global themes, shedding light on cultural issues including regional corruption in areas including South Sudan, Haiti and Mumbai. He has traveled to many parts of the world with a focus on people, landscape and cultures, telling a story through his photographs. A large focus for Frank has been India. For the past decade, he has traveled to all four corners of India. Additional travel includes Atacama, Cuba, Bhutan, Iceland, Central America, Germany, Norway and Mongolia. A native Northeasterner, Frank often focuses his lens on national and regional scenery in the USA. His work has been featured in media, print exhibits, and in philanthropic awareness campaigns. Frank inspires others through his workshops, classes and mentoring. His goal is to help others see the un-obvious and to instill the desire for creativity.

Gerri became interested in digital photography in 2000 as a creative outlet. She soon discovered that Buffalo/Niagara was a great area to photograph any subject throughout the year with seasonal interest. She enjoys photographing all subjects and the challenge of new ways to see through the creative use of Lensbaby lenses. She has beta tested new lenses for Lensbaby over the past year prior to their release, and some of her work can be found on Lensbaby.com. This past year she discovered the joy of still life and food photography by setting up a small studio indoors. Gerri’s images have been featured in several publications including, Nature’s Best Magazine, Erie Canal Statewide Photo Calendars, tourism guides, The Discover-Buffalo Niagara Calendars and several local commercial proposals. Gerri resides near Buffalo, NY with her husband Phil and Basset Hound, Thurman.

Jamie is an award-winning outdoor and nature photographer with a passion for capturing and sharing intimate details of nature and landscapes. She embraces creative techniques and simple beauty. Her process emphasizes connecting with and presenting subjects that convey her vision. Her creative tools include color, infrared and black/white, macro/close-up, abstracts, HDR, long exposure, Lensbaby and all the tools of the digital darkroom. Jamie is a former board member of the North American Nature Photography Association (NANPA) and member of Carolinas Nature Photographers Association. She's presented at NANPA's Nature Photography Summit, N4C's Annual Conference, CanAm Photo Conference, Mike Moats' Macro Photo Conference and Unique Photo Expo. Through New Life Photos, Jamie leads workshops throughout the Southeast. Her goals as an instructor are to educate, encourage and inspire people to develop their skills, connect with subjects, and discover their own visual voice.

JERRY KEEFER

Jerry is an entrepreneur, power engineer, educator, and artist. He has worked extensively in the power industry since graduating high school. From the United States Air Force to the Air National Guard to private companies, he currently manages the reliability of the power grid for more than 65 million people in 13 states. Jerry co-owns a photography business with his wife, Lori, of 21 years where they use their storytelling abilities to create personal and professional branding images for fellow entrepreneurs and business professionals. Their High School Senior portraits and their Automotive Fine Art are sought after across the country. Jerry's love of cars and his passion to create something that will preserve the history of all things automotive, combined with his professional photography and proprietary techniques developed over many years, allows him to create art that can intertwine the story of both car and collector in an heirloom to pass down to future generations. In essence, capturing the story and history that can withstand the life span of the automobile itself.

JIM MONTANUS

Jim went from being a corporate marketing manager to becoming one of the most recognizable photography brands in Rochester within just two years. Jim was recently voted 'Rochester's Best Photographer' in City Newspaper's annual reader's poll for the 4th year in a row. As the son of legendary Kodak photographer Neil Montanus, he has been around photography his entire life. But it wasn't until his college years that he became intensely interested in photography as journalism major. Of course, it would be impossible for Jim to share his story without talking about how his father Neil Montanus influenced his life and his photography. As a Kodak Photographer, Neil traveled the globe, photographing the world's most beautiful and exotic locations and some of its most famous people – and from a very young age, Jim often tagged along. Jim started his career as a journalist, but that quickly evolved into photography when he accepted the position of Staff Photographer at the University of Rochester. Then Jim reinvented himself as a corporate marketing manager. Although he has specialized in portraiture and commercial photography, he now spends much of his time on landscape, fine art photography and teaching classes and workshops.

Kathy is a photographer, judge, and instructor and an animal wrangler for photo shoots, film, TV and prints. Photography is a family affair at the Macpherson House. Kathy's great grandfather was Robert Turnbull Macpherson, who was a wonderful architectural photographer in the early 1800's. Her grandfather, Robert Macpherson, established a portrait photography studio in Lynbrook circa 1890. It was named "Inverurie" after his beloved country home in Scotland. She has had a passion for photography since she could hold a Brownie and loves all venues of photography, but particularly enjoys nature and macro. If people are not having fun learning, and evolving, you have not given them a legacy. She states, "This is my third year of judging PFLI clubs and each club is special and endearing. I believe in positive judging. The best thing a judge can do is to enable members to go home with a positive, refreshed, and eager to learn attitude. I am Lovin' what I do!" "Photography is never a capture – but a Preservation."

MARC FARB

Marc is a Technical Representative for Sigma. For Marc, photography is more than just a job, or a way to earn a steady income; it is a way of life. Even more, it's his chance to capture and preserve special moments in time, showing them off to the world in a way they may never get to see them. He was given his first camera at the age of 8 years old and by the time he was 14 he had his own darkroom. Marc eventually became a freelance commercial photographer and from there, he took a Tech Rep position with Olympus Imaging for the first stop in his career in the photo industry. Since then he has worked with such companies as Xrite, Ilford, Mamiya, Prophoto and Sekonic. Marc continues to do freelance work and one of his clients is a major hospital system in the New York City area. Experienced in medical and surgical photography, his work for them has included a variety of assignments. Currently, Marc's assignment with Sigma includes technical application support from the corporate office, as well as extensive traveling for photo conventions and trade shows. Proficient in Photoshop and Lightroom on a PC or Mac, he teaches classes throughout the USA and Canada on photographic topics that range from pixel to print, and all points between.

OSSIAN LINDHOLM

Ossian Lindholm is a nature photographer from Tucuman, Argentina. Trained as an Agronomist, he turned his deep passion for nature to photography. In his work as a photographer, teacher, and documentary filmmaker, he is dedicated to capturing, conserving, and sharing the landscape, nature, and culture of Argentina in its most pristine state.

Lindholm has published five books, 14 calendars, and he teaches photography throughout the year. Since 1998, he has been leading groups of photographers and naturalists on photographic journeys throughout his native Argentina. For the past five years, he hosted a popular weekly nature TV documentary called Travesia Fotograficas. By crafting powerful images, words, and music that touch the audience's emotional core, he educates and inspires his Travesia audience to love and protect their environment. Lindholm has been a passionate photographer since he was a small boy. He pursued a career in agricultural engineering and developed a passion for biological sciences that remain a strong influence in his work. For many years he worked as a scientist but, in 1998, he dedicated himself to nature photography. He had a personal revelation that photography was not only a profession but a way to make a difference by delivering an important message about conservation and sustainability.

Here was his calling—through photography, teaching, and filmmaking, he must show and teach his fellow Argentinians and the world that nature is sacred and our relationship to Mother Earth is a symbiotic one. This maxim and personal philosophy can be seen through all his work. As he evolved as a photographer, he clarified his mission in one sentence: Para Conservar, primero hay que Conocer... "To conserve, first you must know."

Padma is an avid gardener and a graduate of Civil Engineering, Padma has managed to incorporate the two disciplines into the fine art form of photography. While her floral work took her around the country to various botanical gardens, her appreciation of Neoclassical Architecture has led her to travel the world to capture some of its magnificent religious structures, visiting more than 400 entities in just 5 years. She is one of the very few people mastering the art of vertoramas (vertical panoramas). Padma plans creative and educational events for photographers through the AIP Meetup groups in the tri-state & DC areas. She leads photo workshops and tours and teaches Adobe Lightroom, Photoshop and other applications such as Topaz Texture Effects, NIK filters etc. Her workshops receive widespread acclaim by participants, and she is known for her exuberance in sharing her wealth of knowledge.

SARAH MUSUMECI

Sarah is a member of the Merrimack Valley Camera Club. She has been taking photos for most of her life, but in the last ten years her passion has been architectural, travel and portrait photography. She began taking interior photographs for small Bed and Breakfasts in New England, but soon advanced to major hotels in Boston and NYC. Having had thirteen magazine covers, she has had much experience in the editorial world. She has given presentations at many New England camera clubs, NECCC, Photographic Society of America (PSA) Conferences and has been a Portfolio Reviewer at the Conference for eight years. A highly talented and sought-after judge, she has judged throughout New England on the local camera club level, over twenty PSA and NECCC interclub competitions and several International Exhibitions in both projected images and prints. She photographed and produced conference videos which have been posted on our website, Facebook and YouTube.

SEAN BAGSHAW

Sean is an outdoor photographer, digital image developing enthusiast and photography educator based in Ashland, Oregon, where he resides with his wife and two sons. In the 1980s and 1990s he did some rock climbing and mountaineering and enjoyed being an expedition photographer because it allowed him to present slide shows to anyone he could corner in a dark room with a projector. Over time he moved away from documentary images and became immersed in the art of photography. Now he photographs mountains instead of climbing them. He spends about a quarter of each year sleeping in his truck or on the ground, stumbling around in the dark, eating bad food and avoiding showers. Twice since 2008 his images have been exhibited in the Smithsonian as winners in the Nature's Best Windland Smith Rice International Awards. His previous career as a science teacher makes photography education a good fit. Sean teams up with fellow Photo Cascadia members leading workshops and he also teaches digital image developing classes, lectures and offers a series of Photoshop video tutorials.

STEVE GETTLE

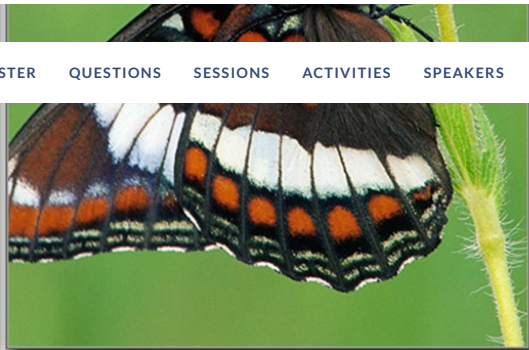

Over the course of his 30-year career, Steve Gettle has spent countless hours creating hundreds of thousands of photographs capturing nature’s beauty around us. His images communicate his love for the wildlife and the wild places of our world. Steve’s images have been exhibited in galleries and museums all over the world, including the Museum of Natural History in London and the American Museum of Natural History in New York as well as two solo shows at the National Center for Nature Photography. Steve’s work has been featured in many books, magazines, calendars, and other publications including the National Geographic Society, Canadian Geographic, Audubon, Sierra Club, the BBC, the World Wildlife Fund, the National Wildlife Federation, Birder’s World, Nature’s Best, Wild Bird, and Natural History. Steve has been honored to receive many awards for his photography. Some of the highlights include being chosen as Great Lakes Wildlife Photographer of the Year and a multiple award winner honored in the BBC’s Wildlife Photographer of the Year contest, as well as often recognized in the prestigious Nature’s Best photography contest.

Bill is a frequent lecturer and judge for camera clubs and other organizations throughout New England and beyond. Bill's interest in photography started in high school. He developed black and white film and made his own prints. He is a member of The Photographic Society of America (PSA), the New Haven Camera Club, and the Connecticut Association of Photographers. He is a vice-president on the New England Camera Club Council (NECCC) Board as co-director of the Interclub Projected Image Competitions. In PSA sanctioned exhibitions Bill holds a 2-Diamond rating in the Projected Image Division (Color), a 5-Galaxy rating in the Photo Travel Division, and 5-Star ratings in the Nature and Photo Journalism Divisions. He has also earned numerous awards in local competitions. He has written multiple feature articles for the PSA Journal and his work was featured in a Distinctive Image article. In the last few years, Bill has been pursuing a hybrid approach to his photography. He combines live narration, stills, video clips, and sound files to create travel presentations and essays with more production values than is possible using just still photographs. Combining travel, photography, and storytelling is now central to his hobby.
