Learn how to post-process your images like a pro. We will progress into more advanced techniques such as bracketing exposures and HDR photography. We will learn image blending techniques using layer masks in Photoshop (sounds complicated, but it much easier than you think). It starts off as a classroom lecture using a large screen monitor to show examples of HDR photography. Then we practice doing bracketed exposures in the gallery with your specific camera.

Type	Conference Workshop CW9

Speaker	Kurt Budliger
Cost	$42. After June 21 $52.

Adobe Lightroom has been a critical part of my imaging workflow – how I perfect my images – since its first release. Its functionality and interface are second to none both for the casual photo enthusiast and for the seasoned pro. And for a full-time professional photographer like me, it's a life-saver.

This workshop will provide beginning and intermediate Lightroom users the expert knowledge of the best practices necessary to make images shine. We will establish critical assumptions and best practices on image capture and file organization and then dig into how to organize and edit images. Then we learn the tools in the Develop Module that bring out the best in any image – the adjustment brush, graduated filters, and other essential tools. I am pleased to be able to share my hard-earned knowledge with you. Happy Lightrooming!

Photography is often referred to as the art of “painting with light”. In most instances that ‘painting’ happens in a fraction of a second. The Live Composite feature on Olympus cameras allows that light to be painted on the sensor for much longer periods of time without overexposing the whole image.

Live Composites are:

- Composite – a picture, photograph, or the like, that combines several separate pictures.
- Live – happens right before your eyes, in camera

Peter will show how Olympus camera live composite setting allows you to create a photo from several separate photographs that are combined in the camera over a period of time.
